

In&motion airbag technology presentation

October 2024

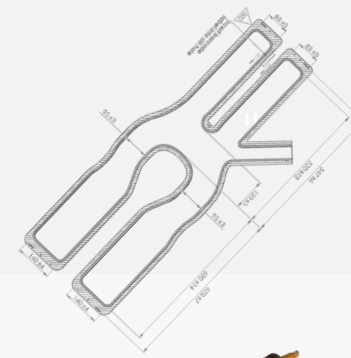

A product made of 5 key components

Each component has been designed and optimized first and foremost with performance in mind.

Comfort and ease-of-use have however not been compromised.

Airbag cushion

Its shape defines the body areas that will be covered.

A one-piece woven process that helps simplify the construction of the garment

Inflator

Its performance (quantity of gas and speed of release) defines the level of protection in case of accident.

Shell

The shell ensures the correct connection between the removable In&box and the gas generator.

Back protector

The back protector is designed as a holder for the inflator whilst providing maximum additional back protection.

HP products integrate EN1621-2 Level 2 certified back protectors.

In&box

The electronic control unit is the brain of the system, capable of detecting a fall in milliseconds.

It is the sole property of In&motion.
